Heart—Continued

As man that was affrayed in his herte,—
Certes, it was of herte, al that he song;
And brende hiseloven with a stedfast herte.
They ronne so hem thoughte hir herte brek.
Constant in herte, and ever in bisynesse
Anon his herte chaunged and his mood,
Anon the feend into his herte ran,
With fadres pitee stikynge thurgh his herte,
Hir fader, with ful sorweful herte and wil,
As shameful deeth as herte may devyse
But wel I woot thou doost myn herte to crme
Myn herte is lost, for pitee of this mayde.
'By Goddes precious herte,' and 'By his nayles,'
This daggere shal thurghout thyn herte go!
And with his spere he smoot his herte atwo!
And he that hath the cut with herte blithe
Ful ofte in herte he rolleth up and down
And with his precious herte-blood thes boghte,
Yet tikled it his herte, for that he
It tikleth me aboute myn herte root!
Unto this day it dooth myn herte boote
I seye I hadde in herte greet despit
She knew my herte, and eek myn privete,
I holde a mouses herte nat worth a leek
That al myn herte I yaf unto his hool.
In feelynge, and myn herte is Marcin;
That boghte us with his herte blood agayn.
Hanged himself for herte despitous.
He spak moore harm than herte may bithynke;
The wo that in myn herte was, and pyne?
That I shal make thyn herte for to morne,
Hir thoughte it swal so soore aboute hir herte,
Til she came there her herte was a-fyre,
Now is myn herte all hool, now is it oute,
So, wolde God! myn herte wolde breste!
His herte bathed in a bath of blisse;
Swiche paynes that your herte myghte agryse;
Upon this Frere his herte was so wood,
With which the devel set your herte afyre,
Hool nat the develes knyf ay at thyn herte,—
And in his herte he rolled up and down
That we with pitous herte unto yow pleyng,
Made the markys herte han pitee.
Ther as myn herte is set, ther wol I wyve;
No likerous lust was thurgh hire herte y-ronne,
Commendynge in his herte hir wommanhede,
Lenger the plesance of myn herte hyde.
I seye this, be ye redy with good herte
And koude so the peples herte embrace,
This markys in his herte length so
That he ne myghte out of his herte throwe
This wyl is in myn herte, and ay shal be.
The murmure sleeth myn herte and my corage;
That it wel ny destroyed hath myn herte.
But to his herte it was ful greet plesance.
She was ay oon in herte and in visage,
That of a cruel herte he wikkedly,
I deeme that hire herte was ful wo;
To whom that she was yeven herte and al,
Be strong of herte, and voyde anon hir place,
With evene herte I rede yow tendure
A wydwe clene, in body, herte and al;
That I yow yaf myn herte in hool entente.
No tendre mouth, noon herte delicate,
And she with humble herte and glad visage,
Ne shal the goost withinne myn herte stente
With al hir herte, in ful benyngne entente,
This sturdy markys gan his herte dresse
I wol with lusty herte, fresch and grene,
Unto the herte, ne koude in no manere
For soory herte, I telle may namoore.
Wel may his herte in joye and blisse habounde,
Hath but oon herte in wele and in distresse.
Ther may no tonge telle or herte thynke.
Myn herte and alle myn lymes been as grene
Your herte hangeth on a joly pyn!
Ther passeth thurgh his herte nyght by nyght,
And leet alle othere from his herte goon,
He purtreied in his herte and in his thought
But in his herte he gan hire to manace,
But God woot what that May thoughte in hire herte
He hath it put and leyde it at his herte.
That from hire herte she ne dryve kan
Lo, pitee renneeth soone in gentil herte!
That hath an herte as hard as any stoon,
So brente his herte, that he wolde fayn
She wayteth whan hir herte wolde breste.
Thou hast me wounded in myn herte, O wyl!
Or elles swelle til myn herte breke;
Mighte I yow helpen with myn herte blood!
To which your herte wilneth for to pace,
Hath set hire herte on any maner wight,
'Myn herte,' quod oon, 'is evermoore in drede;
For swich a joye she in hir herte took,
That causen moost a gentil herte wo.
'That pitee renneeth soone in gentil herte,
For gentil herte kitheth gentillesse.
But for to obeye unto your herte free,
Til that myn herte, to pitous and to nyce,
I yaf hym al myn herte and my thought,—

 So weylawey, why n'il myn herte breste? . . . . . TC.4. 580
 Why sholde thanne of-fer'd thyn herte quake? . . . . . TC.4. 607

Lat us wel taste him at hys herte-rote,
 For evermore, til that myn herte sterve.
 But sende yow grace and sleight of herte also
 And have here-of myn herte-bloode to borowe,
 My dere herte, of Athenes duchesse!
 Ful sorrowfully hir herte may awake.
 Allas, for the myn herte hath pitee!
 And cryede, 'Thesens! myn herte swete!
 Colde waxe hir herte, and ryght thus sayde she:
 For tendernesse of herte for to leve
 He caste his fiery hert upon hir so,
 Of which hir hert agrose, and seyde thus:
 O sely Philomene, wo is in thyh herte!
 That nyghe hire sorrowful herte brake a-two.
 'My ryghte doghter, tresour of myn herte,
 So ny myn herte never thinge me come
 For pite by the herte hir streyneth so,
 Yet may that wo myn herte nat confounde;
 His gentil herte is of so greet humblesse
 Now love wel, herte, and look thou never stente,
 Herte, to thee hit oghte y-nogh suffyse
 So woundeth hit through-out my herte kene.
 So woundeth it through-out my herte kene.
 So hath your beautee fro your herte chaced
 So hath your beautee fro your herte chaced
 So hath your beautee fro your herte chaced
 Ther is no feith that may your herte embrace;
 That tache may no wyght from your herte arace!
 This have I for I love you beste, swete herte!
 Yit wolde I, as I dar, with sorrowful herte
 Forgyveth it me, myn owne herte dere!
 Complayne ne coude ne mighte myn herte never
 So hath myn herte caught in remembrance
 That whiles I lyve, myn herte to his maistresse
 My woful herte suffreth greet duresse,
 Hard is the hert that loveth nought
 Nor never wel in hir herte ferde,
 Hir herte kervyth and so brekith,
 And eek hir hert in angre rennen.
 In worlde nys wyght so harde of herte
 For who so sorowful is in herte,
 Ne may his herte in temper bringe,
 Myn herte was ful glad of this.
 In herte I wexe so wondir gay,
 Ne merye in herte, as I was thoo.
 Made al myn herte in reverye.
 The myrier she in hir herte ferede.
 Me toucheth in myn herte rote,
 Ful debonaire of herte was she;
 Hir herte wolde have full gret pite,
 With herte wyld and thought volage.
 She hadde in herte so gret wo,
 Me smote right to the herte rote,
 That thorough myn ye unto myn herte
 Myn herte failed and feynted ay,
 Gan so depe in myn herte pace
 But in myn herte still it stode.
 Myn herte drew, for all my wo;
 Into myn herte hath masd a wounde.
 But in myn herte the heed was lefte,
 To done right as myn herte badde,
 Aftir the herte, in vele and woo;
 Into myn herte it dide arole.
 Myn herte with his arwis kene,
 To serve his love with herte and all
 Through the body in my herte made,
 Made in myn herte a large sore,
 Myn herte joyfull was and light;
 Lefte bihynde in myn herte
 Hoping in herte that sumtyme ye
 Of herte and willfully at greo;
 The joye wente to myn herte rote,
 And hole myn herte taken me fro,
 Myn herte is yowes and myn ryght nought
 That hath the herte in his tresour;
 Thyn herte to me now wole I shette;
 That he myn herte sodeynly
 With all myn herte me to lere,
 Ne may his herte in no wise
 Alwey in herte, I rede thee,
 For that wole meven in her herte,
 Yaff hoole his herte in will and thought,
 Thyn herte, withoute halven doole.
 To many his herte that wole departe,
 Whanne thou hast yeven thyn herte, as I
 Myne herte alone is to her go,
 My careful herte to convey!
 That myn herte desyeth so.
 Whan I ne so what myn hert wolde.
 No thyng thyn herte appesen may
 Thyn herte shall so ravysshed be,
 The more thine herte brenneth in fier,
 The more thine herte is in desire.
 Thyn herte full sore thou wolt disapie,
 For they in herte kunne thenke a thyng,
 So high I have myne herte sette
 Leve hoole thin herte in hostage,
 That hath thine herte in hir keypyng.

Best in thyne herte, where she be.
 The which is closed in her herte;
 In herte it makith hem glad and light,
 I-wys, he sittith so nere myne herte
 To whom go shewe hooley thine herte,
 That hath thyn herte in hir keypyng.
 And if his herte to love be sett,
 But to the herte they [it] convoie;
 Which can to the herte in such manere
 Wherof the herte rejoiseth soo,
 That the herte desirith soo,
 For thanne the herte is all at ese,
 In herte I have hadde so gret peyne,
 Noon herte may thenke, ne tunge seyne
 Myn herte in poynt was forto braye,
 That made thyn herte mery to be.
 And thee in herte tourmented soo.
 Thyn herte was joly but not sage,
 To daunte thyn herte, and eke thee caste,
 Who so his herte alwey wole leve
 To drawe myne herte out of his honde,
 He took myne herte so hoole hym tille,
 Of herte pray hym specially
 Fro whom I ne may withdrawe myne herte.
 Fro love his herte may not goo.
 His herte is hard that wole not meke,
 Stroke to myn herte withoute more,
 By cause hir herte was in affray,
 Of herte I crye you heere mercy
 Thyn herte I trowe be failed all.
 Myne herte for ire goth a-ferre
 Thurghoute myne herte in every veyne
 Myne herte, allas, wole brest a-two,
 Which brent myn herte in many wise.
 His absence at myn herte I fele.
 Kepe atte leste thyn herte to me,
 Puttern thine herte in no servage.
 Have herte as hard as dyamaunt,
 At large kepe thyn herte free.
 A trewe herte wole not plie,
 Inward myn herte I feele blede;
 Myne herte shal nevere in likyng be,
 To Bialacoll leve I myne herte
 Myne herte foryetheth therof right nought,
 That all by herte I can it rendre,
 But setteth her herte and all her thought,
 Though for a tyme his herte absente,
 Of trewe herte, just and seere,
 And halt myne herte undir his sele,
 To hert that of gret valour is.
 For hert fulfilled of gentillesse
 If that his herte it undirstode,
 Whanne in his herte is no pite?
 Herte and all so hole they yive,
 Hert, and body, and servise;
 For evere in herte thenkith he,
 His herte in sich a werre is sett,
 He sette his herte and his desire.
 That his herte a-sondre ryveth;
 And sore theron her herte sette.
 Her goode herte and her leaute.
 And setten not her herte therto.
 Good herte makith the goode thought,
 And kan by herte every langage;
 His herte on that so fer is sett,
 Myn herte chaungith never the mo
 Alway in herte hem thought so,
 And if his herte hym streyned so,

 Palladiones feste for to holde.
 He wolde smile and holden it folye,
 Of him thinks I my tale forth to holde,
 But, from a-fer his maner for to holde,
 What for to speke, and what to holden inne;
 And, but she do, I holde it for a vice!
 For treweliche I holde it gret deynte,
 'But that I n'il not holden him in honde;
 Ye wol it holden trewely to me?'—
 Now lat her slepe, and we our tales holde
 What sholde I lenger sermoun of it holde?
 Rid forth thy wey, and hold thy governaunce!

 And how he wolde in trouthe alwey him holde;
 Towards her, but holden him in honde
 To holde him on the morwe compaignye
 I hope, and thou this purpos holde ferme,

 And love is vertu, though men holde it nice!
 What! hold thy bed ther, thou, and ek thy Morwel!
 'Thou art at ese, and hold thee wel ther-inne;
 Holden a bond perpetuely duringe;

 And Pandarus gan holde his tonge stille,
 Or hold her stille, and lef this nice care!
 Paraunter she may holden thee for nice
 That wot was you to holden in quiete;

 And hold thy purpos, for it is the beste,—
 For who may holde a thing that wol away?
 Whe'r him was wo, this holde I no demaunde!

 Thus soeily, I holde it vilanye,
 Let us forth holde our purpos fermely,
 Hold forward now, and after lat us ride.
 This purpos wol I holde, and this is best.
 And I wol don hem holden up the yate

 Which I delay, and holde him yit in honde
 Your beaute, that my lif unnethe I holde,

Trouthe and honour, fredom and curteisie.

 Nat greveth us youre glorie and youre honour,
 Of the bodies, and the grete honour
 And ther he lyveth in joye and in honour
 To doon honour to May, and for to ryse.
 'It nere,' quod he, 'to thee no greet honour,
 Saugh I Conquest sittynge in greet honour
 To esen hem, and doon hem al honour,
 Thy sovereyn temple wol I moost honouren
 For which he yaf to Mars honour and glorie.
 That is to seyn, trouthe, honour, and knyghthe,
 And certainly a man hath moost honour,
 Whan with honour up-yolden is his breeth,
 Departed is, with duete and honour,
 Therefore he wolde his hooly blood honour,

 Bisechyng hym to doon hire that honour,
 The honour of his regne to sustenee.
 Everich of hem dooth oother greet honour;
 This senatour dooth Alla greet honour,
 To hym, that was of so sovereyn honour
 To Cristes chirche he hidde greet honour;
 But al honour, as I kan understonde,
 For his honour myself for to arraye,
 To doon therwith myn honour and my prow,
 For youre honour, for Goddes sake, I seye,
 Nat that I may encreessen hir honour,
 For she herself is honour and the roote
 I wol it konne oure lady for to honoure!
 And namely ther thounour of God shal sprede.
 And eek his mooder, honour of mankynde,
 And with honour of greet processoun.
 In honour of that blisful mayden free, so muche that ye shul have honour in for youre honour, and for youre profite to doon to every wight honour and profit, and no wight

 I love youre honour and youre profit as I do desireth, save oonly worshippe and honour.
 Of honour that oure eldres with us lafte.
 Glorie and honour, regne, tresour, rente,
 Of trouthe and honour, but of Armorique
 Fortune hym made the heir of hire honour;
 Fulfid of honour and of worthynesse,
 It is reevee and contrarie of honour.
 Was sent to Corynthe in ful greet honour
 It is an honour to everich that is heer
 And but thow do to my norice honour,
 Keepe thyn honour, and keepe eek myn estaat,
 Of which that Britons speken greet honour,
 Somme seyde honour, somme seyde jolynesse,
 Were in no book, ye gentils of honour
 And moost honour to yow and me also;
 I shal hym tellen which a greet honour
 Wher as ther woned a man of greet honour,
 Thogh I have had in scole swich honour;
 By cause he is a man of greet honour,
 And ful of honour and of curteisye;
 Honour to God and yow, as we kan deeme.
 Am I to thilke honour that ye me beede;
 Han holden me in honour and nobleye,
 And koude swich honour and reverence,
 Of children, to thounour of God above,
 That serveth any lord of heigh honour,
 As he best myghte, sayynge his honour,
 First, love of Crist, and to yourself honour,
 As wel as ye, and also myn honour;
 And sendeth yow, in honour of youre feestee,
 That evermoore myn honour and renoun
 For his honour, as ofte it happeth so,
 To seke in armes worshippe and honour,
 And was a man of worshippe and honour,

Thy lady is, as frost in winter moone;
Lest I wolde of thy lady thee biggle!
What! liveth not thy lady, bendiste!

Or elen himself, al be his lady fair?
And of his deth his lady naught to wite;

To here or sen Criseyde his lady wepe,

That am unworthy to you, lady bright.
'And for the love of God, my lady dere,

Gan therewithal Criseyde, his lady dere,

Hir lyf, hir love, hir lust, hir lord;

But, lord! the perrie and the richesse
And, lord! the hevenyeh melodye,
And, lord! this hous in alle tymes
Al founde they Daunger for a tyme a lord,
'Welcome, Somer, our governour and lorde.'
This shold a ryghtwis lord be in his thoght,
For he that kyng or lorde is nature,
For, syr, it is no maistrye for a lorde
And for a lorde, that is ful fouls to use.
That hadden founde hire lord, hire governour?
And wel a lorde he semede for to be
Mercy, lorde, have pites in youre thought!
Of al his regne, and made him lorde and kyng.
And kyng Oetes lorde was of that ile.
And like a lorde, and had a grette renoun,
God save my lorde, I pray him for his grace!
Doon as a lorde and as a verray knyght;
Of Trase was he lorde, and kyng to Marte,
For at Athens duke and lorde was he
As verray lorde, and toke the obeisaunce
That in his house was lorde, ryght as hym lyst.
And seyde, 'Lorde and fader, al youre wille,
No lord, no taylage by no tyranny
For which he wol no longer be thy lord.

Love—Continued

Right so this god of love, this ypocryte,
That sowneth into gentillesse of love.
Graunted hym love upon this condicioun,
That I hadde graunted hym fully my love,
To loven two, as writen folk bifore;
Men loven of propre kynde newefangellesse,
And loven novelrie of propre kynde,
That al his love is clene fro me ago,
Thus hath the kyte my love in hire seryyse,
How that this faucon gat hire love ageyn,
Love wol nat been constreyned by maistrie.
Whan maistrie comth, the god of love, anon,
Love is a thyng as any spirit free.
Looke, who that is moost pacient in love,
Servant in love, and lord in mariage,—
Sith he hath both his lady and his love;
The which that lawe of love acordeth to:
That was hir housbonde, and hir love also;
Yet wolde I graunte yow to been youre love,
Thanne wol I love yow best of any man.
For to go love another mannes wyf,
To hire of love; he hadde of it no doute.
He sholde wel make my brother han his love;
Wher he shal han his love or fare amys,
'Whom I mooste drede, and love as I best kan,
Er ye me sleen by-cause that I yow love.
To love me best,—God woot ye seyde so,
How trewe eek was . . . His love, that rather for to dyen chees . . .
For verray love which that I to yow have,
Than I departe the love bitwix yow two.
Took mannes shape the eternel Love and Pees,
Of hir preyere, and God to love and drede,
And for his love that dyde upon a tree,
That with greet love, wher so I wake or sleepe,
That ye me touche or love in vileynye,
And if that ye in clene love me gye,
He wol yow loven as me for youre clennessse,
And if thou love another man, for sothe,
'That in this world I love no man so;
Devocioun of chastitee to love.'
'Lo, right so as the love of Crist,' quod she,
The crosselet; 'For in tokenyng I thee love.'
But taketh heede now, sires, for Goddes love!
Or, for to speke of love and wommanhede,
'For love of God, that for us alle deyde,
And, as ye love me, kepeth it secree;
Tacord and love, and many a wrong apese.
She shal be cleped his 'lady,' as in love;
of this seed is the love of God, and the the lawe of God is the love of God.
they love togidre in the payne of helle,
wel, hir fleshly love was deedly hate,
soule, certes, he may love noon oother
'Ye that loven God, hateth wikkednesse,' for, trusteth wel, to love God is for to to love that he loveth and hate that he synne is it, if man love Jhesu Crist lasse amenuseth the love that men sholde han lightly ameneuse in hym al the love that in his herte as the love of God, or moore.
And therefore the love of every thyng that a man love it lasse than God, yet is it the love of any thyng weyeth in the herte of man as muchel as the love of God, sooth is that if a man yewe his love, the muchel as he yeveth of his love to thilke
the love of his herte.
eke if he love wyf or child, or hym by the brennyng love that he hath seith Saint Augustyn, 'If a man love God
he dooth is in the love of God, and for the love of God verrally, for he brenneth in the love of God, looke, how muche man that is perfit in the love of Jhesu
artow holden for to love and wile hym
'Love thy neighebores as thyself'; shalt love hym in word, and in benigne thou shalt love hym in swich-wise that thy freend shaltow love in God. I seye, thyn enemy shaltow love for Goddes sake by man shal loven his enemy by the
to his love, that been his enemys.
soothly nature dryveth us to loven oure
and rancour of herte, he shal love hym
han moore nede to love than oure freendes;
of the love of Jhesu Crist that muchel as thilke love is the moore deeth by love of oure enemy.
thanne is love the medicine that casteth
the love of his neighebores. It stryvet that loven specially to muchel hir owene pacient for love of Jhesu Crist and accidie and bynymeth hym the love of for it biveveth hym the love that rather love thee than drede. I woot wel.
Man sholde loven his wyf by discrecioun, paciently
in trouthe, and in love, as seith Seint
Paul, that a man sholde loven his wyf

'Now, my goodde em, for Goddes love I preye,' Wol deme it love of frendship in his minde.
'Swich love of frendes regn'th in al this toun;
That ye him love ayein for his lovinge,
As love for love is skilful guerdoninge.
Go love, for, old, ther wil no wight of thee!
Ret me to love, and sholde it me defende?

She seide, 'O Love, to whom I have and shal
In love, y-wis, that al that bereth lif
I love oon which is most ententif
Y-wis, I love him best, so doth he me:
'Whom sholde I thanken but you, God of Love,
And thanked be ye, Lord, for that I love!
'And who-so seith that for to love is vice,
To love, Lo, swiche maner folk, I gesse,
Defaunen Love, as nothing of him knowe:
Or love the wers, though wrecches on it cryen?
As I have seyd, wol love unto my laste
Al dredde I first to love him to biginne,
Ne conne wel the blisse of love descrive.
The parfitt blisse of love? Nay, y-wis!
They wenen al be love, if oon be hot!
And ay gan love her lasse for t'agaste
Of love which that made his herte gay;
And love thee best, by God and by my trouthe,
Her love of frendship have I to thee wonne,
'Al esily, now, for the love of Martel'
That love it made, or elles moeste he dye;
So fresch is it though love do it smerte,
For love of God, that toucheth swich matere
For love, that everich other day I faste!
'Aquite him wel, for Goddes love!' quod he.
Now, for the love of me, my nece dere,
In love; but as his suster him to plesse
Was for to love him unwist, if she mighte,
But tho that ben expert in love it seye,
Al n'ere it but for man I love most,
But, for the love of God, myn uncle dere,
That for her love is that I fare amis;
For love of God, and lat us faste go
For love of God—and so doth Pandar eke—
Seide, 'Alle folk, for Goddes love I preye,
Of love: O mighty God, what shal he seye?
Plesaunce of love, O goodly debonaire,
God loveth, and to love wol not wene;
Withouten love, is worth, or may endure.
Yeve him in love ese or adversite,
For love in erthe, and whom you list he hente.
'O, for the love of God, do ye not so
For love of God, mak of this thing an ende,
For Goddes love; and doth him not to deye.'
'Biseching him, for Goddes love, that he
Of me in love than right in that cas is;
To speke of love!'—and right therwith he lough,—
For love, of which thy wo wex alwey more;
For Goddes love, and keep her out of blame;
Her love, and seith that other wol she non,
So, for the love of God, this grete emprise
For which her thoughte that love, al come it late,
Touching hir love were at the fulle up-bounde,
For love of him thou lovest in the shawe,
'O Jove ek, for the love of faire Europe
For love of Cipris thou me naught ne lettel
Yit for her love, O help now at this nede!
'Mercurie, for the love of Hiersce eke,
'No word, for love of God, I you bisechel
That for to holde in love a man in honde
I mene, as love another in this while,—
How that your love al fully granted is

How that ye sholden love oon, hatte Horaste,
'Now, loke than, if ye that ben his love
And, for the love of God, sin al my triat
For love of God! And, Venus, I thee herie,
And that love is in cause of swich folye,
Of love, ayeins the whiche no man may
To seyn right thus, "Ye, jalousey is love,"
For-that oo greyn of love is in it above!
If it be liker love, or hate and grame!
Of habundaunce of love and bisy cure,
For love of God, lat preve it for the beste!
But for the love of God, sin ye be brought
For love of God, take every woman hede
Than seide he thus, 'O Love, O Charite!
'Benigne Love, thou holy bond of thinges,
'And for the love of God, my lady dere,
For love of God lat alee me with the dede,
They felte in love the grete worthinesse.
That blameth love and halt of it despit,
As is in love in oo point in som plit?
They clepen love a woodnesse or folye,
Servise of love hadde eres al-so longe
And love is vertu, though men holde it nieel.
That love and night han stole and faste y-wryen,
And, for the love of God that us hath wrought,
Thankinge Love, he so wel her bisette;
Of frendes love, that herte may devise,
Of Love, and ek thy kinde business!
For love of God, be war of this michief,
To love her best, the more it me deliteth
And, as in love, he was in swich gladnesse,
So wel as he; and thus gan love him plesse.
'Love, that of erthe and see hath governance,
Love, that his hestes hath in hevenes hie,
Love, which that with an holsum alliance
Love, that enditeth lawe of companye,
Al this doth Love, ay heried be his mightes!
And if that Love aught lete his bridel go,
And lost were al, that Love halt now to-hepe,
That with his bond Love of his vertu liste
To make hem love, and that hem liste ay rewte
Com him of love, his lady thank to winne,
And most of love and vertu was his speche,
Thus wolde Love, y-heried be his grace,
So that the los of lif and love i-ferre
For love of God to don that reverence
Now for the love of God and of bounte,
Love made him al prest to don her bide,
Your bother love, ther it was erst unknowe,
'O verray Lord, O Love! O God, allas!
God love that ye finde ay love of steel,
"The newe love out-chasteth ofte the olde,"
The newe love, labour or other wo,
'Thou biddest me I sholde love another
To chaunge so in love ay to and fro,
Why n'iltow love another lady swete,
'If thou hast had in love ay yit mischaunce,
For wel fele I alwey my love encrease,
For-why in love is litel hertes rate!'—
Paris hath . . . A love; and why shaltow not have another?
Than is she fals; so love her wel the lasse!
Thorough love is broken alday every lawe.
That al this world ne mighte her love unbinde,
And thus she brenneth bothe in love and drede,
O dere herte ek, that I love so,
Of love, allas, that endeth in swich wise?
'Endeth than love in wo? Ye, or men lieth;
And, for the love of God, my nece dere,
That love him bet than he himself, I gesse.
In love also ther come and gon plesaunces?
Sin Love and cruel Fortune it ne wolde
And for the love of God, forgive it me
That serveth Love, if that he wol have joye.
That love ne drof you not to do this dede,
But for the love of God, if it be may,
Now, for the love of Cynthea the shene,
To sen you wepen that I love most,
And for that love which that I love you eke,
That "love is thing ay ful of bisy drede,"
For Goddes love, so beth me not unkinde!"
Bigan to love her first for whom his sorwe
If that I speke of love, or make it tough;
Oo God of love in soth we serven bothe.
And, for the love of God, my lady free,
And for the love of God beth not my fo,
Though that I speke of love to you thus blive;
Ayeins the God of Love, but him obeye
O lady myn, that I love and no mo,
For love of whom thus pitousliche I sterve,
That from his love, or elles from his wif,
Ye, though he love her as his owne lif;
For Goddes love, lat us now sone at eve
'For love of God, ful pitousliche he seide,
'Now goodde swete, love me wel, I preye!"
For love of God, ren faste aboute thy sperel
Sin first that day her love bigan to springe:
For evere on love han wrecches had envye!
That she n'as not withoute a love in Troye;

What sorowe trewe lovers maken
To make ensample wols I fonde.
As nature couthe it make faire;
And forto make me to hym mete,
To make these ladies merciable.
Yf me a martir wolde he make,
Therefore I rede make no daungere,
For god defende that I shulde make
And if ye lyst of me to make
Ye may therof do make a keye,
And high of gre I vole the make,
To cure thy woundes and make hem clene,
What garnement that thou shalt make,
Thyn hondis washe, thy teeth make white,
Now can he synngen, now maken mone;
But if thou canst mirthis make,
Thou shalt make [no] gret daungere
Songes and complayntes [se] that thou make,
And make thy yifte debonairely,
And go forthe also, and make thy mone.
Or any erande myghtist make,
But if that she thi pees wil make.
Thou shalt make castels thanne in Spayne

Till thou ageyn make thi passage.
Aye unreleased woo to make,
Nere that hope couthe hem make Glad,
To make a mirrour of his mynde;
Of all this harme to make an ende,
And Swete-Thought, make eke abide;
In me fyve woundes dide he make,
I durst no more there make abode
For thy wole make thee lyve in care,
Suffre I rede, and no boost make,
Or on youre man a werre make,
Nor I nell make mencoun
To make anon a fort[re]se,
In myddis shall I make a tour,
Aboute, to make companye
And grette manace on hym gan make.
To make faire semblaunt, where thou maist blame.
Make a sperhauke of a bosarde."
Frounyng his eyen gan to make,
He hirede hem to make a tour.
A foulis flight wole make hir flee,
Porto blowe and make sowne
And maken it to fade and falle,
And make thy body unto hym loute,
To make thee buxom to her lawe,
For many tymes whanne she wole make
And high maister eke thee make,
And make in haste my testament,
And make al hool thi sorwe to slake,
If he there make his mansioun,
How faire chere that evere she make
Man shulde maken his requeste
Of his wurship to make hym falle,
They maken it hole in many wise,
They maken foolis glorifie
Thus kan she maken high and lowe,
Yit never shal make his riches Assest
Full litel care for hem they make;
Ne have power to make lettyng
To make this thyng the sikerere:—
I shal hym make his pens outelynge,
And make hym selle his londe to spende,
He wole hym-silf suspicious make . . .
What covenant that ever I make . . .
Or what the world an argument,
Or what Semblaunt that evere I make . . .
Who myght defense ayens hem make?
I myghte maken yow wery;
Take on and make another straunge.
[I] make into my trappis falle,
To make double confessioun,
To make my confessioun double.
But forto make hym glad and fawe
I wole no mo ensamplis make—
Ony emprise forto make
Make I not wel tumble myn apes?
And make hem trowe, bothe meest and leest,
[Nyl] make hem knowe what it is.
And forto make yow hem perceyven,
Make folkles shuldriken . . .
Her bordurs larger maken they,
And make her hemmes wide alwey,
And forto maken hym down to go
And thus his freendis foes we make.
I make pees and mariages,
And many tymes I make enquestes—
My paleis and myn hous make I
But al anywile I bilde and mak
Maken though our golet glide,
Do maken up a tour of height,—
Of which I make no mencoun,
Al redy bateil for to make,
And four batels they gan make,
To maken hem be known there,
Is this the sermoun that ye make?
